III. LITERATURE REVIEW

What Is a Resume Builder?

A resume builder is an interactive software application that uses resume templates appropriate for different industry categories, with themes that match your style. The templates are highly customizable, and you can change colors, fonts, sizes, as well as layout.

Benefits of Using a Resume Builder

Many have tried making their own resume, but it can be frustrating if you don't know where to start. You can also get a professional resume writer to create one tailored to you, but it will cost money. If you opt for a resume builder, here are some benefits:

Free

There are several resume builders available online for free. Check their templates and themes to see which one resonates most with your style. If you prefer a unique template, you can always find resume builders with premium paid plans that will expand your choices of templates and themes.

Time Saver

The time spent preparing your resume can often be better spent on networking or additional training courses that enhance your job skills. Preparing a resume goes beyond listing your education, work experience, and skills. You also need a layout that stands out. With a resume builder, the layout and format are created by the software. All you need to do is add your credentials.

User-Friendly, Customizable Templates

Resume builders have vibrant, eye-catching, customizable templates, and they come with various layouts. If the job you are applying for requires out-of-the-box thinking, a creative template with stylish designs might be a good choice. If the job focuses on reliability and efficiency, a professional template with a streamlined layout may be better. A modern template will probably have fancier and bolder fonts, with some splashes of color for a contemporary look. For those with work history gaps, a functional template often highlights education and skills rather than chronological work history.

Easy to Create and Update

The great thing about a resume builder is that you can create variants of a master resume. For example, you can have a master resume with all your credentials. From that, you can create sub-versions of it for different job applications, using different templates or themes, and adding only the skills relevant to the job you are applying for. You can also change the layout by just choosing a different template using the information you already put into the builder. More examples of this can be seen in this resume examples webpage.
